I normally don't inform anyone when an issue is mailed, but with all the latest "foofaraw", I decided to let you know that we are still in full action mode, despite being termed dinosaurs, Luddites, etc. for not converting to full-color, glossy paper magazines. Or electronic meetings, etc., etc.

During this brief break between issues, I have already upgraded two computers for friends, plus a couple of older laptops, and am continuing to work on my scanning backlog. Barbara and I spent a few hours with a niece visiting from California, cleaning up after the "mailing party", etc. There was even a BLHS BOD meeting, during which there were not a lot of kind words about Zoom meetings, etc. Plus an investment club that meets here monthly, which involves setting up six monitors (and breaking them down afterward), etc.

No moss growing here!
